Sex, Gender and Orientation

- Sexual orientation simply describes the sex a person finds attractive in relation to his or her own sex.
- Sex is the biologically based presumption of reproductive capability to determine a person's label of "female" or "male". This label, at birth, is usually based on a doctor's visual assessment of a baby's genitalia.
- Gender is the social meaning given to sex. Gender includes how we have learned to walk, look, act, dress, what job we choose, what first name we have and so on. For most people, their gender identity is their sex made visible.
